Despite the fact that this will be a lame-duck session of congress, the prospects are that the dillydallying and wrangling that marked its sessions earlier during the year

DOMINION POWER RATE DECLARED TOO HIGH

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 30.—(P)— W. A. Huddleson, valuation engineer, told the state corporation commission today that he believed electric rates of the Old Dominion Power Company in Lee and Wise counties "could be safely reduced 30 per cent and probably 35 per cent."

He was called to the stand by the Virginia Coal Operators' Association, which offered other witnesses who testified that the nower company is over ified that the power company is overtified that the power company is overvalued and at present is earning far in excess of a fair return.

A. K. Morrison, counsel for the coal operators, presented tables of statistics designed to show that present rates, which last year brought the power company $$12,767.49 from its consumers, should be reduced to not more than $$510,300 and possibly to $460.344.45. assuming 7 per cent on the true value to be a fair return.

"Accident toll eight in the south."

"Gainesville manager injured on highway in auto accident."

These are some of the headlines that appeared in Monday's issue of The Atlanta Constitution. It's the story of one day's accidents on highways. It's one of a thousand stories giving details of accidents.

The ever-growing accident wave always menaces you. Whether you live in town or in the country doesn't affect your risk. You were not killed or injured Sunday, but will you be signalled out for disaster next Sunday or some other day—or today?

Are you protected against this great and common peril? Is your income safe-guarded against an abrupt termination? Is the future of your wife and children secure?

The Constitution offers you the famous travel accident policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago. This insurance is offered to subscribers and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of $15 and 69 on the one subscription going into that home at the small registration fee of $1 each per policy per year.

Six Conference Teams Place Men on 'AP' All-Southern Eleven

Will Minor League Baseball Men Toss Sand or Grease on Skids?

That letter from W. G. Bramham, chairman of the minor league baseball committee, was significant. "Baseball is engaged in a very serious fight for its very

One wonders what the baseball men are going to do about it. Will they continue the tactics which have led to near-bankruptcy or will they really organize, come down to earth and keep the rules they make or not?

Baseball people are great people generally, but they make rules just to break them. Contracts have come to mean but little. When the boom days were on players got what they asked for. And what they asked for was sometimes staggering.

The most curious contracts I ever saw were those which a good fellow was making with his athletes, his star athletes. He was no more to blame than the others. He had to play the same game.

Some of the contracts had so much money stipulated as salary. And they were each marked with a "B. L.". The players were each drawing more than the contract called for.

"What is that 'B. L.' beside the salary?" I asked him. "That stands for 'Business Lie,'" he said with a chuckle. "They aren't marked up against a man in St. Peter's little red book."

The minor leagues went in for big salaries-big parks and

And now the minor leagues are faced with the problem of cutting down. The Southern association has radically reduced the salary budget by putting in a salary limit of $4,500, a most radical move since the salary limit of the salary of at least six players on the Atlanta club would have been that much last season.

And already the word is around and about that the rule won't be enforced because it can't be enforced.

One well-known Southern league official laughed at "How will they check up?" he asked. "Who will know what is paid out over and beyond the contract

There are too many good ball players who will hold out for more than the average salary of about $240, which the limit means. And if the owners had any real organization they could stay in line. But some fellow will need a pitcher or an infielder to make his club look like a pennant contender and he will arrange for something extra. And who will know?"

And so it goes. If the Southern league owners can stand the pressure they can restore baseball. Baseball is on the skids. It was over-emphasized much more than football ever was. It seems strange to insist that a professional sport could have too much professionalism, but baseball had reached that point.

I have always thought that Babe Ruth deserved every cent of his contract. He really saved baseball after the Black Sox scandal. He gave it the new era of popularity. And other artists in the major leagues rated their large contracts.

But the minors were paving to ordinary ball players more than they could ever hope to be worth. Extravagance was rampant.

It has been argued that a return to something like sane conditions would mean a cheapening of baseball. And that the fans would sense it. Such an argument will not hold. Baseball in Michigan is mable to obtain permission from the Big Ten conference. Those professors do not like to set precedents. Despite the fact that many of them are good.

Auburn is not a rugged team. But the Auburn football teams must have. And Auburn has the will to win. Which is ever more important than speed or power or size.

The will to win is an intangible something. It cannot be put into a test tube or worn on one's coat. But the will to win will see the put into a test tube or worn on one's coat. But the will to win with some very good platitudes such as "The team that won's be beaten can't be beaten." But there is quite a lot to it, as one will find with most of the platitudes. Auburn was a beaten when it left the field against Georgia at Columbus a few days ago. It was beaten. And yet it came back to win. Aburn wouldn't mind being second choice on the invitation,

Georgia Tech's squad of 28 goes back to work today for the trip to California and the game with the Bears out there on December 17. Appleby has done little punting but was called into action when Mit Fitzsimmons suffered an attack of flu, and proved himself a real

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer. Jimmy Hitchcock and Don Zimmer-man, triple-threat backs from Auburn and Tulane, drew most praise from coaches and sports writers who selected the eighth annual Associated Press All-Southern conference football team. For the first time in several years there were no unanimous choices there were no unanimous choices but Hitchcock and Zimmermah were named on a vast majority of the 50 ballots by football experts.

Six teams, representing every sec-tion of the conference, placed athletes on the first squad, while seven have men on the reserve eleven.

BATTLE OF BACKS.

BATTLE OF BACKS.

One of the features of the balloting was the close race between the five star backs—Beattie Feathers, of Tennessee: Clyde "Dixie" Roberts, of Vanderbilt: John Cain, of Alabama; Zimmerman and Hitchcock.

Feathers was third in the tabulation as Cain won place over Roberts by a handful of votes. Although a halfback, Hitchcock received more votes for quarterback than any other and was named at that post. Ralph Kercheval. Kentucky's fine back and kicker, polled a heavy vote but was crowded off by the landslide in favor of the other ball carriers.

The closest duel of ballots among the linesmen came at tackle and guard. Charles Leyendecker, of Vanderbilt, and Fred Crawford, of Duke, finished with a small margin over Bill Grinus, captain of Virginia Tech's fine team, Tom Hupke, of Alabama, and John Scarfide, of Tulane, topped the guards but the race for second team positions was spirited.

As the season opened, Tulane had three of its star backs left from the backfield cast of 1931, which stood out as one of the strongest scoring quartets of the country. These three were Zimmerman, Felts and Payne. Here was a combination of great offensive and defensive strength, capable of winning another Southern title.

And then the cyclone struck. Before the first big test came along Payne suffered a broken bone, which retired him for the year. Then Nollie Felts, one of the best fullbacks to be found anywhere, was barred for a brief connection with the Cotton States league before entering coleran in the backfield. And that wasn't all. When the game with Louisiana State arrived on Thanksgiving Day, Zinmerman was in bed with the flu, to offset these losses other colleges showed gains almost as large.

Gains for the most part were due to winning teams, while losses were attributed to poor showings.

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and Temple, all winners, have shewn marked increases in patronage.

Pitt, undefeated, played to a total tipe of the season's brightest spots, but think what the triple combination might have shown!

BY JOHN L. COOLEY. NEW YORK, Nov. 30-(P)-While the British pound was making a vigorous recovery, the stock market flopped out of its recent narrow groove today and rolled a couple of points nearer the October lows.

Sterling's early strength caused enough nervousness among stock exchange shorts to give a firm tone to opening quotations, but the market turned downward after about 15 minuates' of activity on the buying side. Closing prices were around the lows. Net losses ran from 1 to more than 4 points in many leaders and sales reached 1.093.071 shares, about dou-

The market had a professional appearance. Sterling's swoop to well above $3.20 was assumed to be a reflection of short covering based not only on the currency's so-called "technical position" but also of news that London was shipping gold to New York. French frant ruled steady.

Steel shares were heavy. Iron Age

Industrials generally dropped, American Can, Case, Westinghouse, Union Carbide and Du Pout losing 1 to 2 points or so. Rail shares noted the reaction in carloadings that usually occurs in Thanksgiving week. Union Pacific sagged 3 and Santa Fe 2.

In utilities, American Telephone was soggy, with a net decline of more than 2. American Tobacco "B" was soft, off 4 5-8 net.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS. ... .33 .33 .324 .324 .324

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN. CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(P)—Corn and oats played the mischief with making a spectacle of themselves by tumbling to bottom prices never here-tofore seen.

December outs today reached an extreme low price of 141-4 cents a bushel, outdoing the previous all-time bottom record, 141-2 cents, established in 1896.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same was most apparent just at the end of the day. No reason developed beyond increased pressure of December liquidation.

Provisions sagged as a result of packers' offerings of lard.

BY VICTOR EUBANK. NEW YORK. Nov. 30,-(P)-The bond market made a feeble attempt to steady itself today but, with substansteady itself today but, with substantial support failing to appear, prices generally slipped back to lower levels. It was another dull session and the only real activity was displayed by a few specialties on the downgrade. Sales totaled only $7.306,000, par value, and the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate loans lost two-tenths of a point.

A rally of the British pound sterling apparently encouraged some foreign bonds, which firmed moderately. Gains were recorded by loans of Great Britain, France, Italy and Poland. Both German government 51-2s and 7s closed unchanged. Japanese bonds were heavy, in sympathy with the yen.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(P)—Selling, largely of professional origin, continued to trickle into the curb market today and prices lost further ground.

The day's sales totaled 170,000 shares against 140,000 yesterday.

Electric Bond & Share transactions accounted for more than 20 per cent of the total volume, and with selling of the stock suffered a loss of nearly 2 points, dropping below 20 for the first time in several weeks.

Dullness went hand in hand with eakness in the industrial group. Prices slipped off a point or two on surprisingly small offerings, emphasizing the general lack of buying interest. Aluminum Company of America dropped more than 3 points. Pan-America Aluminum Great Atlantic & Pacific registered losses of 1 to 2 points.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(***)—A stockholders suit demanding that General Electric Company and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Coreturn or cancel 7.500.000 shares of Radio Corporation of America stock and not distribute it to their stockholders, as provided in a federal courficensent decree, was disclosed in state supreme court today.

consent decree, was discussed to supreme court today.

The plaintiff is the Torquay Corportion, a stockholder of Radio Corporation of America. The petition charged that the federal district court was misled in signing the recent consent decree dissolving the alleged radio monopoly held by General Electric, Westinghouse and Radio Corporation.

tric, Westinghouse and Radio poration.

An affidavit made by Louis D. Frelich, vice president of the Torquay lich, vice president of the Torquay Corporation and law partner of Nathan Burkan, counsel to the plaintiff corporation, asked the court that Westinghouse and General Electric be restrained from distributing the 7.500,000 shares to their stockholders on the ground that the stock rightfully belongs to Radio Corporation of America.

fully belongs to Radio Corporation of America.

The affidavit said that Radio Corporation of America is in the unfair situation of having been forced to surrender its monopoly to manufacture and distribute radio equipment, yet by the decree is divested of the 7,500,000 shares of stock it gave to the two electric companies in 1930 for the exclusive right to manufacture radio equipment.

It was, of course, practically certain that East held the Ace and Queen of spades. The positions of the club King and Queen were not so clear. Psychology Illustrated While most Bridge writers place considerable stress on the importance of the psychological element in the game, one usually finds that they deal only with its application to bidding. I do not recollect ever seeing an illustration of the effect of psychology on the play, and I therefore venture to draw attention to the following hand, which occurred the other evening, and forms, I think, as pretty an example of psychological play as it would be possible to find.

Neither side was vulnerable. North dealt and bid one spade on this hand:

and bid six hearts, which East doubled. South redoubled, and there was no further bidding.
West's Opening lead was a diamond. South won with the Queen and then went into Dummy with the Knave of hearts to obtain two discards on the diamond Ace and King. These discards brought into play the psychological factor.

If South discarded two spades, East would in all probability discard the spade Queen. But would he carry his reasoning to its logical conclusion and discard the Ace also on South's last trump? It was clearly necessary to take into account East's "class" before proceeding. South knew him to be just a moderate kind of player, who, while making no bad mistakes. Would be likely to fall short in a crisis such as this, and decided that, at the last, East would shirk parting with the spade Ace and would comwith the spade Ace and would compromise a club. This would defea South, since East and West must then make the last two tricks.

Clearly, therefore, South must dis-TRM. modern home, N. E. section. No loan. Will take N. Fulton acreage W. of P'tree. Call Mr. Cannon.

Everything worked out beautifully South discarded a spade and the Knave of clubs, led a club and won with the Ace, and then led five more trumps. On the last of these, East, who held King-x of clubs, discarde
